Dear Officer,

I am writing to provide my proof of financial capability in support of my Study Permit application for Canada. My name is Alireza Heidari, and I have been accepted into the Master of Science in Computing Science program at Simon Fraser University (SFU), with studies commencing in January 2025.

For the first year of my studies, I have secured a total of CAD $71,000. This amount includes a family contribution of approximately CAD $30,000, which comprises around CAD $30,000 held in my mother's account and about CAD $20,000 in my personal account. Additionally, I have been awarded financial support from SFU totaling at least CAD $21,000 per year for two years. This funding includes scholarships, research funds, and teaching assistantships, as outlined in my admission letter.

I have estimated my first-year expenses to be CAD $46,334, which is marginally higher than the official estimates provided by SFU, IRCC, and other reliable sources. After accounting for these expenses, I will have CAD $23,666 remaining, representing a comfortable margin of 52% above the estimated costs. These available funds will enable me to manage any unforeseen expenses that may arise during my studies in Canada.

I have also secured housing at SFU Residence and Housing from January 2025 to August 2025, with the option to extend for the following year. A deposit has already been paid, as confirmed in the attached documentation.

I have enclosed all relevant financial documentation for your review. Please feel free to contact me if you require any further information or clarification.

Thank you for your time and consideration of my application.

Sincerely,
Alireza Heidari

1 | First-Year Financial Overview

This chapter outlines the estimated expenses for my first year of study at SFU and the funds I have secured to cover these costs. The total estimated expenses are CAD $46,334, while the available funds amount to CAD $71,000, resulting in a surplus of CAD $23,666. Table 1.1 provides a summary of this financial overview.

Table 1.1: Financial Overview for First-Year Studies

Category	Amount (CAD)	Reference
Total Estimated Expenses	$46,334	–
Total Available Funds	$71,000	–
Remaining Funds	$23,666	–

The available funds exceed estimated expenses by approximately 52%, ensuring financial stability for unforeseen costs.

1.1. Estimated Expenses

The estimated total expenses for my first year of study are CAD $46,334, with CAD $38,000 allocated for living costs and CAD $8,334 for educational expenses. These estimates are based on reliable data for Burnaby, British Columbia, with a slight overestimation to account for potential cost variations. Table 1.2 summarizes the total estimated expenses.

Table 1.2: Total First-Year Expenses

Expense Category	Estimated Cost (CAD)	Reference
Educational Expenses	$8,334	Table 1.3
Living Expenses	$38,000	Table 1.4
Total Estimated Expenses	$46,334	–

Tables 1.3 and 1.4 provide detailed breakdowns of educational and living expenses, respectively.

Table 1.3: Estimated First-Year Educational Expenses

Expense Item	Estimated Cost (CAD)	Notes/References
Tuition Fees	$8,177	As per admission letter
Student Services Fee	$157	As per SFU Calendar
Total Educational Expenses	$8,334	–

Table 1.4: Estimated First-Year Living Expenses

Expense Item	Estimated Cost (CAD)	Notes/References
Housing	$18,000	Based on SFU residence rates for graduate students
Food	$8,500	Estimate includes groceries and dining, as per GEC Living
Miscellaneous	$6,500	Covers personal care, phone, gym, recreation, utilities, and clothing
Transportation	$1,500	Includes U-Pass BC and occasional taxi rides, as estimated by Livingcost
Health Insurance	$1,000	Covers the BC MSP and the SFU GSS Benefit Plan
Flight to Canada	$2,500	One-way ticket from Tehran to Vancouver, based on Air Canada
Total Living Expenses	$38,000	–

This estimate exceeds both the IRCC minimum requirement of CAD $20,635 and the SFU Budget Calculator estimate of CAD $37,502.

1.2. Funding Sources

I have secured CAD $71,000 from various sources to cover my first-year expenses. Table 1.5 provides a detailed breakdown of these funding sources.

Table 1.5: Funding Sources for First-Year Studies

Funding Source	Amount (IRR)	Amount (CAD)	Source of Proof
SFU Financial Assistance	N/A	$21,000	Admission Letter (Subsection 1.2.1)
SFU Residence Confirmation Payment	N/A	$700	Payment Receipt (Subsection 1.2.2)
SFU Enrollment Deposit	N/A	$250	Payment Receipt (Subsection 1.2.3)

Savings (Applicant)	7,500,000,000	$20,000 ²	Bank Statement (Subsection 1.2.4)
Total Available Funds	–	$71,000	–

¹ Exchange rate: 1 CAD = 363,606 IRR (Bank Melli Iran, September 22, 2024).

² Exchange rate: 1 CAD = 365,109 IRR (Saman Bank, September 22, 2024).

My primary financial sponsor is my mother, Anousheh Ansari, who has committed to supporting my studies. Both my mother and father have consistently supported my education, and I am confident they will continue to do so throughout my time at SFU.

1.2.1. Financial Assistance from the University

SFU has generously awarded me financial assistance of at least CAD $21,000 per year for two years, as outlined in my admission letter. This funding comes from research and teaching assistantships, as well as various scholarships. For further details on this financial aid, please refer to the attached admission letter (see Chapter 4).

1.2.2. SFU Residence Confirmation Payment

I have secured a housing contract with SFU Residence and Housing for a two-bedroom unit at the Charles Chang Innovation Centre in Vancouver, spanning from January 2, 2025 to August 22, 2025. To confirm this offer, I have made a non-refundable residence confirmation payment of CAD $700. Documentation of the contract and payment is provided in Chapter 5.

1.2.3. Enrollment Deposit

I have paid a non-refundable enrollment deposit of CAD $250 to secure my place in the program. The official receipt for this payment is attached (see Chapter 4).

1.2.4. Personal and Family Funds

A considerable portion of my available funds is derived from personal savings and financial support from my primary sponsor, my mother, Anousheh Ansari. Table 1.6 details the ownership of the relevant accounts. The bank statements for both accounts, covering the period from May 20, 2024 to September 21, 2024, are included in Chapter 2.

Table 1.6: Bank Account Ownership Details

Account Owner	Bank	Account Type	Ownership Percentage
Alireza Heidari (Applicant)	Saman Bank	Short-term Deposit	100%
Anousheh Ansari (Mother/Sponsor)	Bank Melli Iran	Current Account	100%

Source of Personal and Family Funds

The primary sources of funds in my mother’s account are as follows:

- Employment Income: Accumulated over 30 years of steady employment. Employment records and salary slips for most recent 3 months are attached in Chapter 7 and Chapter 8, respectively.
- Family Savings and Investments: Long-term savings and rental income from family-owned properties. Relevant property deeds are included in the Client Information document of my application.

My own savings are derived from the following sources:

- Parental Contributions (approximately 80%): Regular deposits from my parents, set aside for my future, along with generous monetary gifts on special family occasions and my academic achievements (e.g., university entrance, graduation).
- Personal Savings (approximately 20%): Savings from my previous employments. Employment certification and monthly income details are provided in Chapter 7.
